Editor-in-Chief:

It is my great pleasure and honor to have been appointed as the Editor-in-Chief of the Book of Abstracts (EMAVADEV-ICMRI 2018). I would first of all like to extend my sincere thanks to the EMAVADEV, which publishes this book, and which has entrusted me with this important duty. Credits for this laudable achievement go to numerous authors who have been publishing their manuscripts and to reviewers who have helped in the selection of valuable papers, to readers who have been pointing to rare oversights and, of course, to all other Panel members of Emavadev.

In order to ensure better recognition of the Book on an international plan, an international editorial council will also be formed, so as to give a new boost to regional and international cooperation, which is in the best interest of us all. The work on promoting and improving quality and recognizability of the Book in the today's highly competitive environment is the greatest challenge for each editor-in-chief. In order to achieve this objective, it is first of all necessary to have interesting research and professional papers, but also to ensure a successful cooperation between the editorial staff, Editorial Board, reviewers, authors, and readers.

I wish to extend my thanks in advance to all authors who are going to recognize our Book as a proper medium for spreading and presenting their research results, experience, and expertise relating to all phases of construction process. On this occasion, I would also like to invite all persons connected with research to support development of the journal in the oncoming period. My obligation is to provide them with an environment that is sure to enable transparent and efficient cooperation.

How Judges use their Thinking Paradigm to find the Justice: Reviewing the Law Enforcement in Indonesia

Boy Nurdin, Research & Development Dept. of Boy Nurdin & Partners Law Office; Law Enforcement Research and Development (LERD)

Siti Hajarah, Research & Development Dept. of Law Enforcement System, Faculty of Business and Accountancy, Universiti Malaysia Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia

Abstract: Business Finance and Empirical Jurisprudence, Islamic University, Selangor, Malaysia

The amendment of the 1945 Indonesian Constitution, particularly Article 1 (3) carries a very significant change in the field of law enforcement by a judge in Indonesia. In particular Article 1 (3) of the original stated that "Indonesia is a country based on law (Rechtsstaat) as a concept of Civil Law System" to or move on to the value of the rule of law on the Anglo-Saxon System (Common Law System). From that point, therefore "Indonesia is a country of Common Law System". This paper takes into consideration that since then, Indonesia can use Legal Positivism (Value Rechtsstaat) as well as Realism (Value Rule of Law). Legal Positivism depends entirely on how sentences found as written in the law, while the Legal Realism uses those written law as a reference only. Indonesia has mostly followed the Legal Positivism which has proven unable to meet the public's sense of justice. The discussion paper uses Normative and Empirical Juridical approach. The results have concluded that the Judges in Indonesia should have their Legal Positivism thinking paradigm in line with the Legal Realism or possibly to use and combine both of them - Legal Positivism and Realism - in order to conduct so called Law enforcement in Indonesia with the ultimate goal of law is to find the Justice.
